

Steve Blame

Script Writer / TV Format Developer

Steve Blame is an international screenwriter and TV format developer based in Cologne. His first film deal with Gringo Films GmbH is in development. His TV format 'Where is the Money' co-created with Eyeworks and 2STV was nominated for the Rose d'Or Award in 2005, and ran in Holland and Spain.

His career started at MTV, where Blame was MTV News Editor and Presenter between 1987 and 1994. During his time at MTV he was best known for his journalism, making serious issues accessible to a younger audience, and for getting the best out of laconic pop stars. He interviewed a wide range of people, from Madonna to McCartney, to Gorbachev, Delors, Peres, and even the Dalai Lama. And he lead series of prestigious live debates on the channel e.g. Free Your Mind and Vote Europe.

After leaving MTV in 1994, the former Mathematics and Physics graduate took up residence in Germany where he set up Viva 2. Under his direction the channel won the Gold Art Director's Award for its on-air design in 1996.

Steve is also an ambassador for the One Week One Europe European Festival 2011.

Contact

Steve Blame · Bismarckstraße 56-62 · 50672 Cologne · Germany

T: +49 (0) 221 1686 2967

E: SBlame@aol.com · www.steveblame.com