

Tony Humphreys

Managing Director, Talent Television

Read Drama at the University of Exeter. After graduating in 1979 he ran a touring theatre company producing and directing a variety of productions. In 1986, he joined Hightimes Productions which controlled the sitcom format for 'Me and My Girl' starring Richard O'Sullivan for LWT and also joined Humphrey Barclay Productions Limited becoming a company director in 1995. At HBP he was directly involved in the production of a number of major programmes, including the long running situation comedy series Desmond's for Channel Four and Surgical Spirit for ITV. He left in 1997 to join John Kaye Cooper at Talent Television, becoming its Managing Director in 1999. Tony is responsible for bringing the Test the Nation format to the UK (produced by Talent for BBC One and a Rose d'Or winner) and is also responsible for taking the same format to Japan. In addition to his activities at Talent Television Tony is Chief Executive of the art charity Discerning Eye which mounts the prestigious ING Discerning Eye Exhibition annually at the Mall Galleries.

Talent Television

Talent Television is an independent television production company, based in and operating out of the UK, which produces a wide range of entertainment and factual television programmes and formats for both UK broadcasters and international distribution.

Its current portfolio includes the highly successful interactive TV event series Test the Nation for BBC One, Number One Fan for ITV and the top rated children's entertainment format Best of Friends for CBBC.

Talent Television is an independent television production company, based in and operating out of the UK, which produces a wide range of entertainment and factual television programmes and formats for both UK broadcasters and international distribution.

Its current portfolio includes the highly successful interactive TV event series Test the Nation for BBC One, Number One Fan for ITV and the top rated children's entertainment format Best of Friends for CBBC.

Contact

Talent Television Ltd. · Lion House 72-75 Red Lion Street · London WC1R 4NA · UK
T: +44 (207) 421 78 21 · F: +44 (207) 421 78 11 tony.humphreys@TalentTV.com · www.TalentTV.com